

Cactus Weekly Update

Councilmember Ian Hugh - Glendale, Arizona

July 3, 2014

Have a safe and happy 4th of July Holiday!

Fireworks! With the 4th of July holiday upon us, there has been renewed interest in “consumer fireworks” since the state legislature approved their sale in 2010. Below is information on the sale and use of fireworks in Glendale:

During the public meeting on April 24, 2012, the City Council unanimously approved an Ordinance which stated: “The use of consumer fireworks of any kind within the city of Glendale is prohibited.” This Ordinance also detailed any restriction imposed on the sale of consumer fireworks, and outlines consequences for violation of the Ordinance. The Ordinance became effective on May 25, 2012.

However, during the recently completed legislative session, the legislature passed and the Governor signed a fireworks bill (SB 1158) that preempts cities in Maricopa County from regulating the sale or use of fireworks during certain periods of the year. The bill had an emergency clause attached to it so it was effective immediately upon the signature of the Governor (April 22, 2014).

What this means is that Glendale can no longer prohibit the SALE of permissible consumer fireworks from May 20 through July 6 and December 10 through January 3 each year. In addition, Glendale is forced to allow and cannot prohibit the USE of permissible consumer fireworks from June 24 through July 6 and December 24 through January 3 each year. For a list of permissible consumer fireworks, please visit: http://phoenix.gov/webcms/groups/internet/@inter/@dept/@fire/@prev/documents/web_content/083287.pdf.

For additional information, please visit: <http://www.dfbls.az.gov/fireworks/information.aspx>

The city will be able to continue to regulate the sale and use of fireworks outside those statutorily outlined dates.

Local Author Shona Patel Attends Book Signing and Discussion at Velma Teague Library. Authors @ the Teague is proud to host award-winning local author Shona Patel for a signing and discussion of her critically-acclaimed debut novel, "Teatime for the Firefly," at 2 p.m., Saturday, July 26 at the Velma Teague Branch Library, 7010 N. 58th Ave.

Born under an unlucky star, Layla Roy knows her chances of marriage in 1940s India are virtually nonexistent. However, the unconventional education provided by her grandfather, combined with her own cleverness, allow her to change her fate. Her new life in the famous tea plantations of Assam with her husband, Manik, also marks the start of a new life for India in the wake of fundamental changes wrought by World War II.

"Patel's remarkable debut effortlessly transports readers back to India on the brink of independence... enthralling characters, exotic setting, and evocative writing style," excerpt from a "Booklist" starred review.

Shona Patel's adventurous childhood as the daughter of an Assam tea planter helped to inspire the richly authentic world of "Teatime for the Firefly." An honors graduate in English literature from Calcutta University and a trained graphic designer, she now writes full-time and lives with her husband in Fountain Hills, Arizona.

Everyone is welcome to attend this free discussion. Books will be available for purchase and signing. For more information, please call 623-930-3431. For more information about the Glendale libraries, visit www.glendaleaz.com/library
